

This legislation is a very important step toward preserving and providing access to historical recordings. Sound is currently treated differently from other intellectual property, and we need a federal policy that will lead to releasing important historical works into the public domain, and/or improving public access to such recordings.