

Lee-Bruchon-Jody-20050318070002

To: Julie L. Sigall
Associate Register for Policy & International Affairs

Date: 03/18/2005

From: Jody Lee Bruchon

Comment:

Copyright and patent holders' rights were created to give them an incentive to release their works and continue making them in the future. If a holder does not maintain a degree of accessibility to hand out permissions to their material, they should forfeit their rights and the material should drop into the public domain without further question.